Cabinet Difficulties of M. Thiers and Ministerial Caprice from Official Position.

Personalities in the Law Courts—A Legislative Endorsement of the International—Executive Dread of Artisan Combination—The Government of Paris—Prussian Anxiety Concerning the Stability of the Republic.

TELEGRAMS TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

PARIS, March 4, 1872.

The dissatisfaction which exists in the French Cabinet over the conduct of M. Prouver-Quetier, Minister of Finance, in testifying at Rouen in favor of M. La Motte, ex-Prefect of the Department of Eure who is charged with embezzling funds contributed for the relief of French sufferers, continues. M. Prouver-Quetier is to have an interview to-day on the subject with his Excellency President Thiers. Should the resignation of the Minister of Finance become necessary, it is believed that M. Casimir Perier, late Minister of the Interior, will receive the portfolio of the Treasury vacated by M. Quetier. NO RESIGNATION—THE CAUSE OF TROUBLE MODERATED.

Minister Prouver-Quetier had not resigned, and the Cabinet was still deliberating at a late hour of the evening. M. de la Motte, the ex-Prefect of the Department of Eure, whose trial at Rouen, on the charge of misappropriating funds for the relief of France, has excited so much attention, and was the more immediate cause of the Ministerial crisis, was today acquitted and honorably discharged.

THE GOVERNMENT OF PARIS. The London Times publishes a special despatch from a correspondent in Paris, which states that General Lemaître has reconsidered his determination to retire from the Government of Paris, which position he threatened to resign because the Rapport newspaper has been permitted to resume publication and is now issued from the prison.

THE SUBJECT OF THE INTERNATIONAL DERATED. In the Legislative Assembly to-day there was a stormy debate on the bill imposing penalties on members of the International Society.

Deputy Tolain made a lengthy speech in defence of the society, which, he said, "in placing the principle of solidarity above country only limited religious associations in all parts of the world."

SECRET ASSOCIATIONS AND DREAD OF TUMULT. The Prefect of the Department of the Rhone asks for military reinforcements for the maintenance of order, which, he says, is "menaced by the rapid increase of workingmen's clubs and illegal secret societies."

LOOKING TO ENGLAND. President Thiers to-day, in reply to a deputation of Englishmen, stated that the present passport system was only temporary, and promised encouragement for the tunnel project of communication to Dover.

Prussian Anxiety for the Future—The Beginning of the End. London, March 4, 1872. A special correspondent of the London Times forwards a telegram to that journal from Berlin which announces that His Excellency Count von Arnim, German Ambassador in France, has been ordered to return home for the purpose "of reporting to the government of the German empire his opinion regarding the stability of the present government of France."

The American Case on the Alabama Claims Ready for Official Circulation—Strike of Operatives—Tiebout's Property Trial Drawing to a Close.

TELEGRAM TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

LONDON, March 4, 1872.

Copies of the American case in full, as submitted to the Geneva Board of Arbitration, will be distributed in both Houses of Parliament on Saturday. TRADE STRIKE FOR TIME. The operatives engaged in the flax mills of Leeds have struck for the reduction of their time of labor to nine hours per day. They are conducting themselves in an orderly manner and no trouble is apprehended. The number of persons on strike is estimated at between ten and eleven thousand.

THE TIEBOURNE TRIAL. The jury in the Tiebout case claim trial case have informed the Court that they have heard sufficient evidence whereon to base a verdict, and an adjournment has been taken until Wednesday in order to allow Sergeant Ballantine, counsel for the claimant, time to consider as to his future course.

THE COTTON SUPPLY. Sixteen thousand three hundred and five bales of American cotton were landed at Liverpool to-day.

Destructive Fire in Ottawa. Ottawa, Ont., March 4, 1872. The whole of Stewart's block on Rideau street, in this city, was burned on Saturday night. The fire commenced in Huckle's shoe store, spreading to Mortimer's bindery, where all the government binding was done. The insurance on the block was $7,000 in the Phoenix. Huckle was insured $2,000 in the Aetna and $1,000 in the Hartford. Preston's loss is $2,000; no insurance. Mortimer's loss, $3,000; insured for $5,000. Allan's china store was on fire several times, but was saved. Ross about $20,000; insured. The insurance companies are as follows—Phoenix, $7,000; Hartford, $4,000; Queen, $3,000; Lancashire, $2,000; North British, $4,000; Western, $3,000; Aetna, $2,000.

A RAILROAD PRESIDENT SENTENCED.

WILMINGTON, N. C., March 4, 1872. Andrew J. Jones, late President of the Western Railroad, charged with fraudulent use of the bonds of the company, and tried before the Superior Court of Moore county last week, was convicted and sentenced to pay a fine of $10,000, with one year imprisonment in the penitentiary. He takes an appeal to the Supreme Court.

The British War Against the Looshais Terminated in Triumph.

Peace To Be Proclaimed with Formality—Scene of the English Military Advance—A Magnificent Tea Country Opened by the Operation—Independence of China to a Certain Extent.

TELEGRAM TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

LONDON, March 4, 1872.

Despatches from Calcutta announce that the British expedition against the Looshais having accomplished its object the war is practically ended, and peace will soon be proclaimed.

THE CONQUERED DISTRICT—ITS SITUATION AND PRODUCTION. The Looshai country, which has been just opened to English commerce and military influence by the result of this brief war, under General Bouchier and Brownlow, is an extensive tract of hilly territory, densely covered with jungle, traversed by numerous streams, and only sparsely inhabited by a semi-nomadic race of men, who pass their time alternately in rude cultivation, hunting and internal warfare, varied by occasional predatory incursions on territory occupied either by the British or semi-independent States, protected by Queen Victoria.

The district is situated between 24° 30' and 22° 30' north latitude, and lies north of the British province of Chittagong, southwest of the protected State of Manipur, south of the tea district portion of British Cachar, and due west of the British protected State of Upper Assam. The dimensions of this tract may be roughly given as sixty miles broad at the widest part by 135 miles long. The best way to find the Looshai country is to draw a line due east from Calcutta. At a distance of about three hundred miles this line strikes the southeastern angle of the district in question. The country is a vast tract of low hills, and is a tea country. There are no roads, the territory not having been surveyed, and being as little explored as the interior of Tibet. The Looshais are the dry beds of streams, by traversing which the traveler not only obtains means of passage through the hills and jungle, but also shelter from the rays of the sun afforded by overhanging trees. The best reason for there being no roads is that there are no fixed places of residence to which roads could be directed. The Looshais are a nomadic people, and their mode of life is such that they are called the "Joan" system of cultivation—that is to say, they clear a tract of jungle near the place where they intend to reside for a few years, and then move on to another tract. The following year a new tract adjoining or not far from the old tract is cleared, and the Looshais move on to a new tract. The average of the Looshai population is about 100,000. Nature reproduces itself rapidly in that part of the world, and the clearance of a year is nearly a hundred years since the British first came into the country. The British first came into the Looshai country, and about three years ago they despatched an abortive expedition against the Looshais as pests of the European tea plantations in Cachar.

THE INHABITANTS AND WILD TRIBES OF THE NORTH-EASTERN FRONTIER. The northeastern frontier of the British territory in India being just now a centre of public interest, in consequence of the close of the war against the Looshais, it is not surprising that the Looshais are a brief account of the various wild tribes which inhabit the districts. We commence with the tribes of the Looshai, Cachar and the hills round Manipur. These tribes, which live wholly within the watershed of the Lohit and Jaintia rivers, are the most numerous and powerful in the region. They are all supposed to be the branches of the principal race of the Looshais, the Kacharis, the Jaintias, the Mroks and Nagas. It is, however, a curious fact that several of the smaller tribes or clans not only differ from each other in name, but also in language. In the valleys of the Lohit and Jaintia rivers there are no less than twenty different clans, each speaking a distinct unintelligible dialect, as among the wild tribes of Africa. The Looshais differ little from the Assamese not only in appearance and customs, but also in dress and ornamentation. They are all of the same race, and are all of the same language. The Kacharis are subdivided into two classes, the Old and the New. The Old Kacharis, who live in the hills, are a more warlike and fierce race, and affect a modesty unknown to the other tribes, and the Looshais rank next to them in their apparent apathy for the acquisition of European civilization.

Liberian Liberation from Prison and Death in the Path to Freedom. TELEGRAM TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

LONDON, March 4, 1872.

The regular mail steamer from the west coast of Africa, which arrived at Liverpool this morning, brings intelligence that ex-President Rove, of Liberia, who was imprisoned for certain illegal acts committed while in office, and escaped, was drowned in the harbor of Monrovia while endeavoring to swim to the steamer just before its departure for England.

BRAZIL AND PARAGUAY.

Reported Conclusion of a Treaty and Protectorate of Brazil Over Paraguay. TELEGRAM TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

LONDON, March 4, 1872.

It is reported that a treaty has been concluded between Brazil and Paraguay, by the terms of which the former continues to exercise a protectorate over Paraguay for ten years, and the latter undertakes to pay the expenses of the protectorate, and cedes certain territory to Brazil.

ALEXIS IN HAVANA.

Banquet and Ball in Honor of the Grand Duke. TELEGRAM TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

HAVANA, March 4, 1872.

Colonel Zulueta, of the Volunteers, entertained the Grand Duke Alexis and suite and some Consuls yesterday at a luncheon. A ball was given last night by the Aldermen of the city, at which there was a large attendance.

The Grand Duke visited Matanzas to-day, and was received with enthusiasm. He returns to Havana to-morrow. Captain General Valmaseda goes into the interior in a few days.

DELIVERING MILK.

Deliveries Horse and Wagon Going the Round. Mr. Richard Wolf, of Brooklyn, called at Police Headquarters yesterday and told Inspector Dicks that on Thursday last he left Brooklyn at daybreak, as usual, to go to Jersey City for milk, with a horse and wagon and eight cans in the vehicle. He crossed the ferry from Brooklyn to New York, then went to Jersey, got his cans filled and started to deliver it in this city. When he got to the ferry to New York, the Jersey side he paid the fare to New York, and the gentleman told him to get something to drink at a neighboring saloon. While he was indulging in the alcoholic refreshment, the temperature of the horse, which was milked, and when Mr. Wolf came rushing down to the dock, in wild excitement, the boat was halfway across the river, and the horse was in a state of frenzy. Mr. Wolf, in his excitement, shouted to the animal to wait for him on the other side when the boat touched, but the gentleman only picked up his ears at his master's voice and did not even utter a neigh in reply. Arrived on the New York shore, the horse was in a state of frenzy, and the gentleman who had taken him to the ferry, and who was the example of the other passengers and walked ashore, finding nobody impeded his movements, continued his perambulations to the shore, and the horse, who was in a state of frenzy, was in a state of frenzy, and the gentleman who had taken him to the ferry, and who was
